Attorneys at Law Personal Injury Client

We appreciate the opportunity to represent you and your family's interest. While we believe your case has merit based on the initial information you provided to us, we need to make you aware of a legal rule that could impact your case.

Each state adopts a "statute of limitations" that sets the maximum period of time an injured individual can wait before filing a lawsuit. The statute of limitations rule is different in every state and depends on the type of case or claim.

We will be making a detailed analysis of the proper statute of limitations based on your injury after a more detailed discussion with you and, in some cases, after gathering your medical records.

In some situations, we are also able to argue that a "discovery rule" should apply which works to suspend the start of the statute of limitations. The discovery rule takes into account the timeframe in which the injured party discovered or reasonably should have discovered the cause of their injury.

We will let you know promptly if we believe we will be unable to file your lawsuit as a result of the statute of limitations rule. Thank you again for the opportunity to represent your interests.
